Travel with the experts - the CRUISECO ADVENTURER is on her inaugural voyage on the Mekong at this very moment, the Brand new "Cruise Adventurer" raises the standard in luxury cruising on the Mekong.

"Cruise Adventurer" immerses itself in the community rather than giving you a transient view; visiting lesser known communities to see and understand their local ways; having only local employees from the region on the ship to retain integrity and deliver empowerment to the crew, buying fresh produce from the villages along the river to enhance the feeling of partnership and equality with the communities that you visit, with additional regional dishes on the menus. The cabins are great. Throughout the ship it is very light and airy and this also goes through the cabins which have pale wood floors, white walls and both external and French balconies. The Junior suites on the upper deck give great extra space for couples and the Deluxe suites on Main Deck have a full living room and second bathroom.

ST KILDA

Luke has wind in his sails

ST KILDA actor Luke Mulquaney is preparing for his most challenging role yet.

Mulquaney stars in Norwegian playwright Jon Fosse's I Am The Wind, a tale of two companions bound together on a sea journey.

One wants to push out to the open ocean, but the other, Mulquaney, is afraid.

As the waves rise, they must face the elements, each other, and themselves. It is the first time the critically acclaimed play has been performed in Australia.

With a script that calls for "four different types of pauses" by a playwright who has been likened to Samuel Beckett, there is no room for improvisation.

"The story is more about what they don't say to each other than what they do say," Mulquaney said. "It's a really challenging text, I would say more challenging than Shakespeare. It takes a lot of focus."

Mulquaney grew up in Beaumaris before settling in St Kilda, after three years at acting school in New York. I Am The Wind is at the Collingwood Underground Arts Park until December 1. Details: 0424 660 943 or iamthewind.com.au
